
Declaration of conformity REACH

Eschach, September 2025

With this letter we validate the conformity of our products in accordance with the current version of the European Chemicals Regulation (EC 1907/2006). The REACH Regulation controls the registration, evaluation and authorization of chemicals in the EU. An essential component is Annex XVII, which restricts the use of hazardous substances and substance groups.

Plastic granulates with special chemical compositions are used in the manufacture of our cable management systems. Our products are not subject to registration under the REACH Regulation, which means that we are classified as a “downstream user.” Direct registration is therefore not required.

According to Article 33 of the REACH Regulation, every person placing a product on the market is obliged to pass on information if products contain a substance of very high concern (SVHC) in a concentration of more than 1.000 ppm.

Lead (CAS: 7439-92-1) has been included in the REACH candidate list due to its reproductive toxicity. However, due to the classification as an SVHC substance, there are currently no restrictions on its use or a ban on its use.

Lead remains a commonly used component of alloys until the current exemption expires and is used particularly in screws to improve their sliding properties.

Since June 25, 2025, the candidate has included 250 listed substances. Since the beginning of 2023, melamine (CAS: 108-78-1) has also been added to the candidate list.

Our cable management systems usually consist of several components and may therefore contain small amounts of melamine. This substance may be present in the material of the grommets particularly, regardless of their color, in a concentration of 1.000 ppm to 5.000 ppm.

This affects both our splittable and non-splittable cable entry frames that contain components made from this material. Our cable entry plates, which are partly made of this material, are also affected.
